

Eggrolls n' Sweet Tea

Explore Chinese Cuisine & Demystify the Asian Grocery Store!

Join “Chinese Southern Belles” Natalie and Margaret Keng for a fun, palate-pleasing course celebrating food, family and culture. This mother/daughter team combines Chinese and Southern heritage and perspectives to present this unique course on Asian cuisine in the South. Class includes: 1) An Asian grocery store field trip and tour where you'll learn to navigate Asian vegetables, meats, spices, noodles and more. 2) An interactive classroom session exploring the connection between Asian food, culture, and history; cooking strategies; and kitchen pointers. (While this is not a cooking class, samples of popular food items, recipe ideas, cookware, and creative shortcuts will be covered.) 3) A teaching tasting at a local restaurant where you'll learn to order authentic dishes that may not be listed on the American menu.

Instructors: Natalie and Margaret Keng, Instructors of Asian Fusion History, Culture & Cuisine

Instructor Contact: natkeng@yahoo.com

2 sessions: Thursday 3/26 class, 7-8:30pm and Saturday, 3/28 Asian Market Field Trip & Lunch, 10am-1pm

Registration fee: $135* (includes Saturday lunch)

No discounts can be applied to tuition for this course.

Who should attend

Anyone who has been curious, overwhelmed or intimidated by an Asian/Chinese grocery store and would like to get a hands-on tour of what to buy and how to cook/eat popular products. Busy people who would like pointers on how to make quick Asian dishes with accessible, local produce/ingredients or with creative twists. Anyone who enjoys international culture, history or eating.

Quench your thirst for knowledge, broaden your horizons, meet new people, or find your creative outlet with Evening at Emory - offering seriously unstuffy adult education in Atlanta since 1951. Courses conveniently located near Alpharetta, Buckhead, Decatur, Midtown, and Downtown Atlanta.

To register or obtain more info...

www.EveningAtEmory.org

evening@emory.edu | 404-727-6000

Center for Lifelong Learning

Evening at Emory